2021 FMA SOLO Program Packet

The FMA Solo program was established by pilots who are musicians, spanning the globe, proficiency levels, and all musical genres. The skills required to play an instrument and fly an aircraft have marked similarities, from precision and multitasking to listening and fine motor skills. By pointing out and building on these common attributes, we hope to further interest in both aviation and music. Members share their passions in order to inspire, educate, encourage, and assist others by creating enthusiasm while promoting personal growth through aviation and music.

Musician: A person who writes, sings, or plays music.

There are many pilot/musicians around the world. Some are famous: Dierks Bentley and Ed Robertson. Many are accomplished and at the top of their profession: Louis Vickerman - principal harpist with the Utah Symphony, Jay Mason – professional studio musician, ATP pilot, music and aviation educator, and Ted Piltzecker - world class vibraphonist, composer, performer and educator. The attributes of concentration, practice, crew and resource management, and precision in performances are traits essential in music, and particularly in a group of musicians. They lead to success in many areas of life, but none more so than in flying an aircraft. Not surprisingly, airline studies have indicated that piloting an aircraft has much in common with a musical performance.

FMA hopes to expand the horizons of students who have been taught the right-stuff through their music training while encouraging them to continue music for life.
